

The Study of Drug Supply Reduction Effectiveness in I.R of Iran (2005-2010)

Heidari, Morteza.¹

Abstract

The case study is about the effectiveness of Drug Supply reduction in Iran during 2005-2010 (1384-89 in Iranian calendar), and its aim is to recognize and evaluate drug control organizations' activities such as Law enforcement, Intelligence Ministry, Operational and Judicial forces and etc.

in the period of 2005-2010. The method of this research is Documentary research method. The researcher Made new mixed indicators for trend study from 2005 (1384 in Iranian calendar) to 2010 (1389 in Iranian calendar). It was very useful and showed great results and outcomes related to the quality and the reality of Drug Supply reduction in Iran.

The findings of this study indicated that The Drug Supply Reduction process in Islamic Republic of Iran is professional and this process affected the Drug consumption and Drug Trafficking in this country both in approach and performance domains.

Key words: Drug Supply Reduction, professional combat, Drug Supply control

1. MA of Social Sciences in Islamic Azad University, Science and Research Branch, Tehran.
E-mail: hesam2819@gmail.com.