Review of organized crimes with an emphasis on drugs trafficking and its preventive solutions

Ghahremani Afshar. N, Alizadeh Gholilu. S

Abstract
Today, the globalization makes the nature of committing some crimes international. Such as organized crimes that is one of problems that international community is facing in this century. There is no doubt that an effective and coherent fight against organized crimes only on the basis of correct and adequate understanding of the nature, size, scope of activities, orientations and practices used in organized crimes is possible. So the phenomenon of drug trafficking as one of the most important challenges facing the Islamic Republic of Iran The purpose of this research is to identify issues and constituent elements of organized crimes, international drug control, as well as a report on the drug situation with the aim of providing scientific and practical strategies to prevent and reduce the rate of this type of crime. The style of library documentation and data analysis as well as analytical is done. Finally, it can be concluded that the recognition and analysis of organized crimes and formulate appropriate strategies to deal with them is not possible except in the light of scientific research and In this regard the country as well as the aspects of organized crimes, especially drug trafficking grapple and cost too much and it's time to do this kind of research is crucial.

Key words: organized crime, drug trafficking and psychotropic, preventive solution

1. Ph.D Criminal Law and Criminology Islamic Azad University of Urmia
2. Author-in-chief: Master of Science Criminal Law and Criminology Islamic Azad University of Urmia. Email: saeed22.alizadeh@gmail.com